Action Collaborative Learning Objectives: Session 6

- Identify importance of Full Transfer Drills to promote safety and seamless transfers
- Discuss challenges in Full Transfer Drills and ways to overcome those
- Discuss successes and future quality improvement initiatives as a result of lessons learned from the drill

Outline for Today

- Importance of Full Transfer Drills
- Debriefing YOUR drill(s)!
- Upcoming Step Up Together Opportunities

* When speaking, or posting in chat, please remind us what practice you are in and your role! Let's get to know each other!

Why Focus on Full Transfer Drills?

The 3 Delays Framework

In community-integrated maternity care models, preventable morbidity and mortality are often related to one or more delays.

Reframing the “Train Wreck”

Hospital personnel may fear integration with community birth services due to fear of a “train wreck” transfer.

What we do after an actual train wreck:

Gather information from all available sources

Analyze data to determine root cause

Report publicly on findings and any recommendations for change

Support survivors and family of those harmed

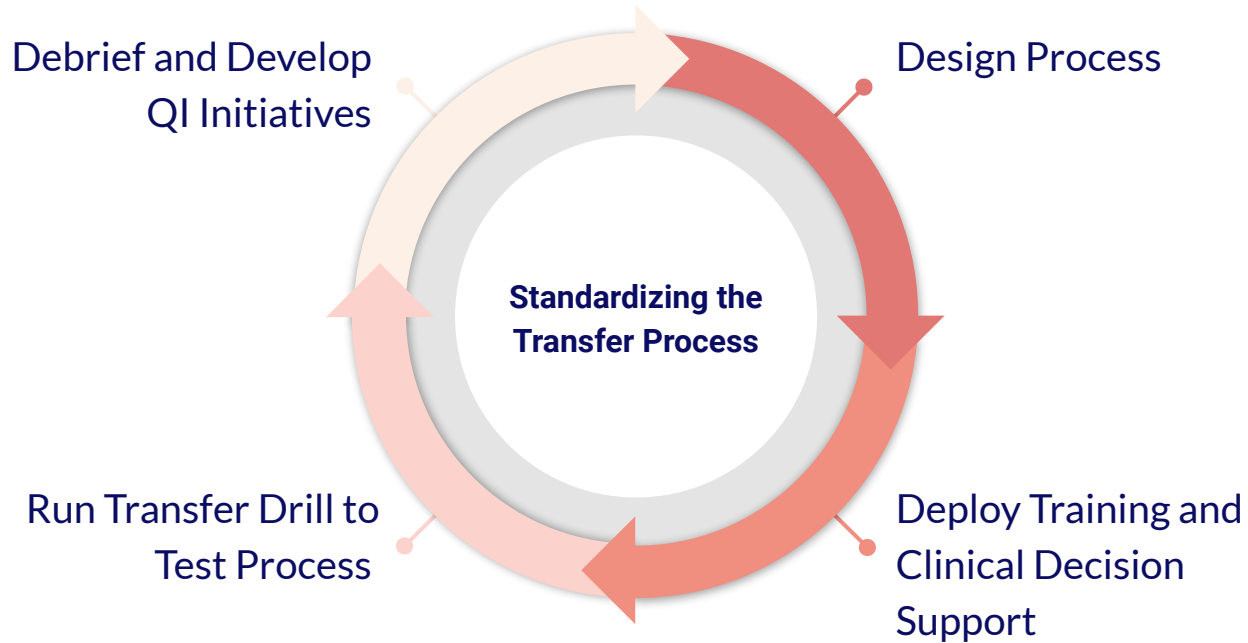

Advocate for change

What we don't do after a train wreck:

- ◆ Lobby against all train travel
- ◆ Automatically blame the conductor
- ◆ Shame passengers for choosing the train as a mode of transportation

Debriefing Questions

What happened?

Give just a brief, high-level summary so everyone's on the same page.

What went well?

Give everyone a chance to share the good stuff they noticed before critiquing.

What needs attention or improvement?

Try to focus on processes and systems, not assigning blame.

What should we do differently going forward?

Make sure to assign someone to follow through on the change.

Primary Maternity Care

Action Steps

- What changes are needed to process or procedures?
- How should this emergency be documented in the medical record?
- What other reporting is required for this emergency transfer?
- What other follow up would be expected after this emergency?
